Community Park Cleanup Draws Record Neighborhood Turnout

Published in Metro Daily Tribune · Local Community News

Local volunteers gathered at the community center on Saturday morning to help clean up the neighborhood park

Teams picked up litter along the walking trails and planted fresh flowers near the public playground.

The annual event attracted more than fifty families who worked together under bright morning sunshine.

Organizers thanked everyone for their hard work and promised to host another cleanup project next spring.

City officials also announced plans to install new solar lighting fixtures throughout the sports complex.

Residents praised the collaborative effort and expressed hope that the park will stay clean throughout summer.
